AASP African American Studies Winter 2024

AASP100 Introduction to African American Studies

Significant aspects of the history of African Americans with particular emphasis on the evolution and development of black communities from slavery to the present. Interdisciplinary introduction to social, political, legal and economic roots of contemporary problems faced by blacks in the United States with applications to the lives of other racial and ethnic minorities in the Americas and in other societies.

AASP211 Get Out: The Sunken Place of Race Relations in the Post-Racial Era

Credit only granted for: AASP298G or AASP211. Formerly: AASP298G.

Prevailing thought suggests that we live in an era that is post-racial, particularly after the election of Barack Obama. Media often serves to drive our assessment of where our nation stands on issues like race, gender and sexuality. This course uses the film Get Out to delve into the production, evolution and significance of race in present day America. The course will engage multiple forms of media to investigate life in "Post-Racial" America, including but not limited to the role of stereotypes, interracial relationships, police-community relations, etc.

WB11	Shane Walsh	Seats (Total: 20)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE

AASP230 Social (In)Justice and African-American Health and Well-Being

African Americans suffer worse outcomes than non-Hispanic whites on nearly every health measure and outcomes that link to overall well-being like depressive symptoms or homicides. Health disparities are experienced by other underrepresented minority groups, but because of the unique historic and current experiences of African Americans, the determinants and solutions to African American health disparities are unique. The premise of this course is that African American health disparities are due to social injustices perpetuated on the institutional level that have permeated the lived experiences of African Americans leading to racial disparities in health and well-being. As such, the solutions on the both policy, and community, level must have a social justice approach.

WB11	Ashley Newby	Seats (Total: 20)

AAST Asian American Studies Winter 2024

AAST355 Asian Americans in Film

Cross-listed with: AMST328W. Credit only granted for: AAST355, AAST398L or AMST328W. Formerly: 398L.

Explores how Asian Americans have historically been represented in the U.S. by Hollywood, and in turn, how independent and Hollywood Asian American filmmakers have represented themselves. It covers the history of racial, gendered, and sexualized representations of Asian Americans in Hollywood, as well as Asian American filmic responses within and outside Hollywood. It also introduces how four basic tools of film analysis mise-en-scene, cinematography, editing and sound work together to create meaning in moving images. It examines how these elements are put together in three different types of films by Asian American filmmakers: narrative, documentary, and experimental. How films function in society to circulate ideas that reproduce and challenge stereotypes about Asian Americans.

AMSC Applied Mathematics & Scientific Computation Winter 2024

AMSC698A Advanced Topics in Applied Mathematics
Contact department for information to register for this course.

AMSC762 Data Analysis Project

Restriction: Permission of CMNS-Applied Mathematics department; and permission of instructor.

This course cannot be used to meet any of the Applied Statistics Area's seminar requirements. Offered yearly, required of and limited to MS non-thesis and doctoral students in Applied Statistics Area, for whom the resulting projects serve as a Qualifying Exam component. After 5-6 lectures or presentations on components of successful data analyses and write-ups, 3-4 sessions will discuss previous student project submissions. The culminating project, to be completed in a two week period between semesters, is an analysis and written report of one of three project choices made available each year to represent a spectrum of realistic applied statistical problems.

AOSC200 Weather and Climate

Prerequisite: MATH107, MATH110, or MATH115. Recommended: Concurrent enrollment in AOSC201.

What are weather and climate? Most people think they know but if you ask people to explain the differences and similarities you're bound to get a range of answers. Weather affects not just our daily activities but other important aspects of society such as transportation, commerce, security and agriculture. Most people understand what weather is to some extent. Climate and climate change are concepts that evoke strong emotional responses from people but are less well understood. In this class, students examine fundamental issues such as the greenhouse effect, severe weather, and global weather patterns and how they relate to a changing climate. Instruction in the lectures will provide the basic knowledge needed to understand these issues. In the discussion sections, students will be divided into groups to address the implications of these topics through group projects.

ARCH Architecture Winter 2024

ARCH448B Selected Topics in Visual Studies in Architecture; Design Drawing: Explorations in Mixed-Media

Selected Topics in Visual Studies in Architecture

This course will encourage students to explore the three primary tools of visual representation in design: manual drawing, digital modeling and physical modeling. Students will research and discuss architectural drawing precedents that utilize mixed-media techniques, while creating a series of design drawings and models that prioritize layering and hybridization. Precedent studies will range from mid-century pioneers in architectural representation, to contemporary designers on the leading edge of design drawing. Each week, in conjunction with class discussions, the students will design a compact architectural intervention, which will be developed throughout the duration of the course. Students will explore in what ways these tools of representation allow us to understand, see, and imagine the built environment - and how each design tool can lead to unique insights in the design process.

ARCH458G Selected Topics in Urban Design; Considering Health Equity through Architecture: Approaches for Creating Healthy Communities

(Perm req)

Selected Topics in Urban Design

This course aims to provide students interested in public health and built environment professions with a comprehensive and transdisciplinary exploration of community, urbanism, design, and health.It will provide students with a conceptual framework for comprehending health and equity within the built environment, delving into topics such as healing and therapeutic environments. Taking a global perspective, this course will facilitate an in-depth understanding of key theoretical concepts and models within this field. Through online workshops and discussions, students will develop the skills necessary to analyze the intricate interplay between public health and the environment. In addition to establishing a foundational grasp of the relationship between health, equity, and the environment, the course will also critically examine the myriad factors that influence the design of healing environments. This is a Global Classrooms course, developed in partnership with the Gl obal Learning Initiatives(GLI) at the Office of International Affairs (O IA) to provide virtual opportunities for global engagement. CLAS276 Are We Rome?

Credit only granted for: CLAS276 or CLAS289A. Formerly: CLAS289A.

America, from its very origins as an independent nation, saw itself as the new Rome: its system of government is built on Roman precedents, its national buildings look as if they came from the Roman Forum, and its leisure activities take us to stadiums modeled on the Colosseum. America's relationship to Rome, however, raises its greatest anxiety: will America fall as Rome did? In 1776, the year of American independence, Edward Gibbon published his History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire; America has been thinking about the trajectory of its history alongside Rome's from the very beginning.

WB11	Gregory Staley	Seats (Total: 35)

ENEE Electrical & Computer Engineering Winter 2024

ENEE131 Technology Choices

An exploration of the positive and negative effects of technology on society, via diverse criteria to assess the relative well being of individuals and society; an examination of how society can help shape the future of technology and the tools that can be used to make wise technology choices.

WB11	Wesley Lawson	Seats (Total: 20)
	MTuWThF 10:00am - 12:50pm	ONLINE

ENEE200 Technology and Consequences: Engineering, Ethics, and Humanity

Credit only granted for: ENEE200 or ENES200.

What makes a technology socially responsible? At UMD, the Fearless Ideas campaign asks us to aim our enthusiasm for technology at big real problems. At the same time, we are coming to appreciate the increasingly complex nature of technological systems as they become integrated into all forms of infrastructure, we realize they may be unpredictable, interdependent on social and biological systems, and have unintended consequences. In this midst of this complexity, people make decisions with far reaching impacts. How then do we follow our passion for technology and innovation but also stay skeptical in a way that allows us to consider the potential and shortcomings of technology? Designed for both engineering and non-engineering students wishing to explore and assess the impact of engineering technology on society and the role of society in generating that technology.

WB11	Wesley Lawson	Seats (Total: 28)
	MTuWThF 2:00pm - 3:50pm	ONLINE
	MTuWThF 4:00pm - 5:50pm	ONLINE	Discussion
WB12	Christine Alexander	Seats (Total: 20)
	MTuWThF 10:00am - 11:50am	ONLINE
	MTuWThF 1:00pm - 2:50pm	ONLINE	Discussion

ENEE499L Senior Projects in Electrical and Computer Engineering

(Perm req)

The purpose is to provide students with an opportunity to engage in independent research projects on advanced electrical and computer engineering topics. Projects are selected by students and supervised by faculty and other qualified mentors. While students may be required to acquire new skills or information in the course of completing a 499 project, the focus is to conduct an independent investigation of a technical theme by the student. The project may be used to satisfy the advanced lab requirement if it is approved as a primarily experimental research project. In that case, the student will enroll in ENEE499L.

Contact department for information to register for this course.

ENEE898 Pre-Candidacy Research

Provide training in education for senior PhD students who contemplate an academic career, and give them the opportunity to gain some teaching experience. Emphasis is on issues that are of special importance in electrical and computer engineering education.

0180	Sennur Ulukus	Seats (Total: 5)
	Contact instructor or department for details.

ENES Engineering Science Winter 2024

ENES102 Mechanics I

(Perm req)

Corequisite: MATH140. Restriction: Must be in a major in ENGR-A. James Clark School of Engineering. Formerly: ENES110.

The equilibrium of stationary bodies under the influence of various kinds of forces. Forces, moments, couples, equilibrium, trusses, frames and machines, centroids, moment of inertia, beams, friction, stress/strain, material properties. Vector and scalar methods are used to solve problems.

Non-engineering students and non-UMD students must submit a Keystone Program Permission to Enroll form for approval to register for this course.

0101	Aris Cleanthous	Seats (Total: 45)
	MTuWThF 10:00am - 2:00pm	PHY 1204

ENES197 The Fault in Our Data: What Counts and Who's Counting

Prerequisite: MATH113 or equivalent. Recommended: MATH115.

Quantitative data and analysis are key to understanding the shape of the world. In this course, we will use the tools of computational analysis to load, interrogate, visualize, and model datasets from dozens of data points to hundreds of thousands. We'll look at how computational methods can tell us when a movie is sexist, how wealth inequality can form, and how rumors spread like diseases. Then, you will find datasets of interest, write code to make sense of them, and share your findings with the world. No prior programming experience is required.

WB11	Brian Danielak	Seats (Total: 40)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE
	MTuWThF 1:00pm - 4:00pm	ONLINE	Discussion

ENES220 Mechanics II

(Perm req)

Prerequisite: Minimum grade of C- in ENES102; and (MATH141 and PHYS161). Restriction: Must be in a major in ENGR-A. James Clark School of Engineering; and must not be in Engineering: Electrical program.

Stress and deformation of solids-rods, beams, shafts, columns, tanks, and other structural, machine and vehicle members. Topics include stress transformation using Mohr's circle; shear and moment diagrams; derivation of elastic curves; and Euler's buckling formula. Design problems related to this material are given in lab.

Non-engineering students and non-UMD students must submit a Keystone Program Permission to Enroll form for approval to register for this course.

WB11	Kevin Calabro	Seats (Total: 50)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE
	MTuWThF 10:00am - 12:00pm	ONLINE	Discussion
	Examinations will be given from 10am-12pm EST on Friday, 1/12 and Monday, 1/22. Students are required to take the examinations in-person at the University of Maryland or at an approved off-site test proctoring center.

ENES221 Dynamics

(Perm req)

Prerequisite: Minimum grade of C- in ENES102; and (MATH141 and PHYS161). Restriction: Must be in a major in ENGR-A. James Clark School of Engineering.

Systems of heavy particles and rigid bodies at rest and in motion. Force-acceleration, work-energy and impulse-momentum relationships. Motion of one body relative to another in a plane and in space.

Non-engineering students and non-UMD students must submit a Keystone Program Permission to Enroll form for approval to register for this course.

WB11	Patrick McAvoy	Seats (Total: 50)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE
	MTuWThF 11:00am - 1:00pm	ONLINE	Discussion
	Examinations will be given from 11am-1pm EST on Friday, 1/12 and Monday, 1/22. Students are required to take the examinations in-person at the University of Maryland or at an approved off-site test proctoring center.

ENES232 Thermodynamics

Prerequisite: PHYS261 and PHYS260. Restriction: Must be in a major in ENGR-A. James Clark School of Engineering. Credit only granted for: BIOE232, CHBE301, ENCH300, ENES232, ENME320, or ENME232. Formerly: ENME232 and ENME320.

Introduction to thermodynamics. Thermodynamic properties of matter. First and second laws of thermodynamics, cycles, reactions, and mixtures.

Non-engineering students and non-UMD students must submit a Keystone Program Permission to Enroll form for approval to register for this course.

WB11	Catherine Hamel, Paul Anderson	Seats (Total: 50)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE
	MTuWThF 11:00am - 1:00pm	ONLINE	Discussion
	Examinations will be given from 11am-1pm EST on Thursday, 1/11 and Monday, 1/22. Students are required to take the examinations in-person at the University of Maryland or at an approved off-site test proctoring center.

ENES317 Introduction to Leadership in Engineering, Science, and Technology

Restriction: Must be in the Minor in Global Engineering Leadership(#EN09). Additional information: Students not meeting restriction requirements should add themselves to the course holdfile. Restrictions DO NOT apply to winter and summer terms.

Develop a comprehensive overview and introduction to leadership and organizational development. Students will reflect on their own leadership experiences, develop a strong foundational knowledge of leadership theory, and advance their capacities in effectively leading teams. Students will connect leadership theory to practice by engaging in case study analysis and critique leadership practices enacted within engineering and technology settings. Students will complete self-assessments to better understand their own leadership strengths and refine their approaches to leadership by incorporating theories covered in this course.

Contact department for information to register for this course.

ENES458A Topics in International Engineering; Engineers Without Borders: Leadership Seminar

A variety of topics related to engineering in a global context are discussed including cultural aspects, cross-cultural communication, international standards and law, and engineering and technology issues, business behavior, attitudes and values of selected countries and regions.

Contact department for information to register for this course.

ENES458F Topics in International Engineering; Climate-Resilient Development: Vietnam's Mekong Delta Region

A variety of topics related to engineering in a global context are discussed including cultural aspects, cross-cultural communication, international standards and law, and engineering and technology issues, business behavior, attitudes and values of selected countries and regions.

Contact department for information to register for this course.

ENES458I Topics in International Engineering; Engineers Without Borders-Leadership Seminar

A variety of topics related to engineering in a global context are discussed including cultural aspects, cross-cultural communication, international standards and law, and engineering and technology issues, business behavior, attitudes and values of selected countries and regions.

Contact department for information to register for this course.

ENES460 Fundamentals of Technology Start-Up Ventures

Restriction: Permission of ENGR-Maryland Technology Enterprise Institute. Credit only granted for: ENES460, BMGT461, SMLP470 or HLMN470. Additional information: Course may not be used to fulfill any BMGT major or minor program requirement.

Fundamental aspects of creating, organizing, funding, managing, and growing a technology startup venture. This multidisciplinary course will draw on management, business, legal, financial, as well as technical, concepts. Students form teams and develop a business plan for a technology company, based on each team's own business idea and then present the plan to a panel of outside experts.

For winter term, permission restrictions will not apply. The course is open to all students.

WB11	James Green	Seats (Total: 100)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE

ENES463 Strategies for Managing Innovation

Restriction: Permission of ENGR-Maryland Technology Enterprise Institute. Credit only granted for: ENES463, BMGT467, SMLP473 or HLMN472. Additional information: Course may not be used to fulfill any BMGT major or minor program requirement.

Emphasizes how the technology entrepreneur can use strategic management of innovation and technology to enhance firm performance. Examines the process of technological change, the ways that firms come up with innovations, the strategies that firms use to benefit from innovation, and the process of formulating technology strategy. Provides frameworks for analyzing key aspects of these industries and teaches students how to apply these frameworks.

WB11	Sharon Flank	Seats (Total: 75)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE

ENES472 Leading Global Teams and Engaging Across Cultures in Business, Engineering, and Technology

Restriction: Sophomore standing or higher; must be a minor in Global Engineering Leadership (#EN09), Global Poverty (#AG06), Global Terrorism Studies (#BS07), or International Development and Conflict Management (#BS02). Credit only granted for: ENES472, SLLC471, or SLLC473. Additional information: Students not meeting restriction requirements should add themselves to the course holdfile. Restrictions DO NOT apply to winter and summer terms.

Develop global leadership capacities and an understanding of the cultural aspects pertaining to industry and international business. In a globalized world, the ability to work, lead and communicate in culturally diverse settings has become a core component to leadership. Through real-world examples, research, and simulations, students will increase their self-awareness and understanding of culture and how culture influences attitudes, behaviors, and practices at the individual, organizational, or societal levels. Students will develop the skills necessary to navigate, negotiate, and lead cross-cultural engagements and teams. The course content is relevant and applicable to anyone interested in developing cross-cultural leadership competencies and cultivating a global mindset.

Contact department for information to register for this course.

ENES664 Business Modeling and Customer Validation

Restriction: Must be in the Product Management or the Technology Entrepreneurship and Corporate Innovation Master of Professional Studies programs; or permission of Maryland Technology Enterprise Institute.

Focuses on how to create and deliver value for customers and extract value for the new venture. Develop business models that encompass the product or service, customers, and the economic engine to meet the venture's financial and growth objectives. Introduces a structured way to think about, analyze, and develop a sound business model that is customer validated.

ENES671 Legal Aspects of Entrepreneurship

Restriction: Must be in the Technology Entrepreneurship and Corporate Innovation Master of Professional Studies program; or permission of Maryland Technology Enterprise Institute.

Explores critical legal and business issues entrepreneurs face as they build and launch a new venture. Examines real world scenarios, and addresses the legal issues at all of the important junctures along the path to success. Significant attention placed on new venture formation, intellectual property management, and financing arrangements.

PLM1	Wilson White	Seats (Total: 25)

ENES676 Negotiation and Problem-Solving

Restriction: Must be in the Product Management Master of Professional Studies program; or permission of Maryland Technology Enterprise Institute.

Explores key negotiation techniques, how to apply these techniques, and their application to real-world scenarios. Establishes an understanding of deal-making, and creates a foundation for exploring the concepts of agreements, contracts, conflicts, and how the resulting transactions formed the foundation for modern scaled economies. Examines reputation effects, customer lifetime value, the basics of civil and criminal law, and how these have formed to constrain our interactions in modern society.

PLM1	Cynthia Gayton	Seats (Total: 40)

ENES677 Data Analysis and Decision Making

Restriction: Must be in the Product Management Master of Professional Studies program; or permission of Maryland Technology Enterprise Institute.

Provides a comprehensive understanding of making decisions under uncertainty for products, portfolios, and programs across various industries and environments. Focuses on the use of Bayesian methods for informing decisions on products and programs when directing experiments. Examines the testing of product ideas throughout the lifecycle, from customer discover, to product discovery, to product design and optimization, to channel testing and marketing for growth.

PLM1	Gregory Baecher	Seats (Total: 50)

ENGL English Winter 2024

ENGL245 Film Form and Culture

Cross-listed with: CINE245. Credit only granted for: ENGL245, CINE245 or FILM245. Formerly: FILM245.

Introduction to film as art form and how films create meaning. Basic film terminology; fundamental principles of film form, film narrative, and film history. Examination of film technique and style over past one hundred years. Social and economic functions of film within broader institutional, economic, and cultural contexts.

ENGL269M Morocco: In the Footsteps of the Beat Generation

Cross-listed with: ARHU269A. Credit only granted for: ARHU269A or ENGL269M.

Educates students about the history, culture and socio-political situation in Morocco through the reading of fiction related to this country. The focus will be on the intersection of American and Moroccan culture and will cover film, music and literature. The American perception of the "orient" has historically been channeled through the French characterization of Arab societies in North Africa. This course aims to disentangle this western mythology from reality in Morocco. Some of the themes addressed will be globalization, colonialism, racism, orientalism, and women's oppression

Contact department for information to register for this course.

ENGL321 Comics and the Graphic Novel

Comics has become one of the most globally popular art forms of the twenty-first century, but it also has a rich history that stretches back to the eighteenth century, and arguably much earlier. This course will introduce students to the unique formal properties of comics and will survey the history of comics across national traditions, including texts drawn from the American, Franco-Belgian, and Japanese traditions. We will read across a range of genres and cultural registers--including newspaper strips, superhero comics, Underground comix, manga, the graphic memoir, and alternative comics. You will learn to analyze and write about the form and history of the medium.

ENGL369D Australian Literature and Culture

Additional information: This is an Education Abroad course.

An immersion into Australian culture and history, this course will explore the literature, music, theater, and arts of Indigenous and contemporary Australia. Students will engage directly with matters of political and social concern, developing both awareness of cultural issues important to modern-day Australians and the skills needed to navigate those issues. Along the way, we will look back to the colonial founding of Australia as a British outpost and consider how modern Australia has emerged from a mixing of Western and Indigenous cultures.

ENGL369N New Zealand Literature and Culture

Additional information: This is an Education Abroad course.

An immersion into the literature, history, and culture of New Zealand, this course will look back to the colonial founding of New Zealand as a British outpost, and to the strong Maori culture the British encountered when they arrived. Students will engage directly with matters of political and social concern, developing both awareness of cultural issues important to modern-day New Zealanders and the skills needed to navigate those issues. Along the way, we will consider how modern New Zealand has emerged from a mixing of Western and Indigenous cultures.

ENGL391 Advanced Composition

Prerequisite: Must have fulfilled the Academic Writing (FSAW) requirement. Restriction: Must have earned a minimum of 60 credits.

An advanced composition course which emphasizes constructing written arguments accommodated to real audiences.

A professional writing course exploring the life and works of JRR Tolkien, professor and author of The Lord of the Rings. Virtual visits with scholars and experts in Oxford, England, where Tolkien spent much of his life, offer a unique opportunity to learn about the writer's world and the unique intersections between his scholarship and his fantasy. Synchronous meetings on Tues/Thurs from 11a.m.-12:30p.m. This is a Global Classrooms course, developed in partnership with the Office of International Affairs (OIA) to provide virtual opportunities for global engagement. ENGL470 African-American Literature: From Slavery to Freedom

Prerequisite: Two English courses in literature; or permission of ARHU-English department.

Examines African-American literature from its beginnings to the early twentieth century, including genres ranging from slave narratives, pamphlets, essays, and oratory, to poetry and fiction. Our emphasis is on the interaction between literature and literary forms, on the one hand, and historical and political developments in the push toward emancipation, on the other.

FMSC Family Science Winter 2024

FMSC111 Credit Cards and College Students

Recommended: Moderate level of computer literacy, especially Internet and ELMS. Reliable computer and Internet access. Credit only granted for: FMSC111, FMSC341 or FMSC498D. Formerly: FMSC498D.

Provides college students with factual information about basic money management skills, emphasizing the responsible use of credit, specifically credit cards. Topics will include financial goals, spending plan, wise use of credit, debt management, consumer credit protection, and ID Theft. Online lessons will include video clips and interactive class activities. Students will learn the basics to build a strong financial future.

WB11	Jesse Ketterman Class time/details on ELMs	Seats (Total: 40) ONLINE

FMSC123 Personal Financial Literacy: From Distress to Success

Exploring strategic thinking, career, education, financial planning during college years as the foundation for success in living a meaningful life. While introducing relevant institutions and tools & techniques that are critical for financial planning, this course applies value-based goal setting and strategic planning that inform individuals' paths for a successful career, educational attainment, and optimum (mental, physical and financial) wellbeing throughout their life cycle. The course particularly emphasizes the individual's responsibility of living in an institution rich society, where, continuous learning, understanding institutions, rational decision-making, valuing relationships and networking, early career development, record keeping, budgeting, generating income and wealth, purposeful spending, saving and investing, tax planning, appropriate use of loans, risk taking and insurance, and retirement planning are well rewarded and ensure the optimum use of college years and the rest of life-course.

FMSC601 Doctoral Seminar in the Process of Inquiry

Restriction: Must be a first-year student in the Family Science doctoral program or Maternal and Child Health doctoral program; or permission of instructor .

This small, team-taught pro-seminar is designed as an introduction to the integration of family science and public health paradigms. The focus is the full, complex "process of inquiry", with emphasis on the conceptualization phase of the process, as it leads to related design, planning, empirical, and analytic phases. Instead of emphasizing content, the pro-seminar will help students develop a broad "way of thinking" about scientific inquiry, which will guide their coursework, assessments, and independent scholarly work during their doctoral training.

FMSC630 Family Therapy with Children and Adolescents

Prerequisite: FMSC640. Restriction: Must be in the Couple and Family Therapy Master's Program.

Covers the theory and practice of individual and family therapy with children and adolescents for the treatment of specific psychological disorders and family system challenges. The course covers assessment and unique considerations for treatment management when working with minors as well as specific therapy models and techniques to work with children and adolescents such as structural family therapy, cognitive-behavioral family therapy, attachment-based therapy, and play therapy techniques. The course also includes psycho-educational family interventions and evidence-based practices for assessment and treatment of children and adolescents. The course emphasizes consideration of therapists' and clients' social location as well as socio-culturally attuned, inclusive, and affirming conceptualization, assessment and treatment to serve diverse populations.

GEOG140 Natural Disasters: Earthquakes, Floods, and Fires

Catastrophic Environmental Events (CCE) that are becoming more common in this time of global environmental change and it is essential that today's students be equipped with the knowledge and skills to be leaders as we, as a society, understand the upheaval that these CCEs are causing. Students will examine how CEEs shape human society and ecosystem from the interdisciplinary perspective afforded by the field of Geography. Students will use the latest geographic science concepts and techniques in exploring these events. Using satellite imagery they will gain a multi-scale perspective of the ecological and societal aspects of the events.

WB11	Keith Yearwood	Seats (Total: 65)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE

GEOG170 Mapping our Digital World

Introduction to technical methods used in gathering, analyzing, and mapping geospatial information for applications such as urban mobility, environmental monitoring, situational awareness, and disaster management. Topics include Geographic Information Systems (GIS), cartography, map projections, satellite and airborne remote sensing, the global positioning system (GPS), and introductory statistics and probability. The course is a gateway to more advanced technical classes in geospatial science.

WB11	Rachel Marks	Seats (Total: 25)

GEOG201 Geography of Environmental Systems

A systematic introduction to the processes and associated forms of the atmosphere and earth's surfaces emphasizing the interaction between climatology, hydrology and geomorphology.

WB11	Amanda Hall	Seats (Total: 45)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE

GEOG202 Introduction to Human Geography

Introduction to what geographers do and how they do it. Systematic study of issues regarding social and cultural systems from a global to a local scale. Looks at the distribution of these variables and answers the question "Why here, and not there"?

WB11	Joy Adams	Seats (Total: 50)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE

GEOG211 Geography of Environmental Systems Laboratory

Prerequisite: Must have completed or be concurrently enrolled in GEOL120, GEOL100, or GEOG201.

A laboratory course to accompany GEOG 201. Analysis of the components of the earth's energy balance using basic instrumentation; weather map interpretation; soil analysis; the application of map and air photo interpretation techniques to landform analysis.

WB11	Baobao Liu	Seats (Total: 45)
	Class time/details on ELMs	ONLINE

GEOG272 Introduction to Earth Observation Science

Credit only granted for: GEOG272 or GEOG372. Formerly: GEOG372.

Concepts and principles of Earth observation and remote sensing in relation to photographic, thermal infrared and radar imaging. Methods of obtaining quantitative information from remotely-sensed images. Interpretation of remotely-sensed images emphasizing the study of spatial and environmental relationships.

Students must pay a $40.00 lab materials fee.

GEOG276 Principles of Python Programming and Geocomputing

Introduces conceptual and practical aspects of scientific computing using the Python programming language. The main focus is on developing proficiency for the basic elements of the development environment, foundational syntax including variables, logical operators, looping, conditional statements, nesting, and common programming patterns for mathematical and textual computing. In addition, essential data structures and functionality for scientific computing, such as arrays, dataframes, and data visualization will be introduced. Throughout the course, students will also become exposed to various applications in the domain of the social and environmental sciences.

Students must pay a $40.00 lab materials fee.

WB11	Ruohan Li	Seats (Total: 25)
	MTuWTh 6:00pm - 9:30pm	ONLINE

GEOG306 Introduction to Quantitative Methods for the Geographical Environmental Sciences

Essentials in the quantitative analysis of spatial and other data, with a particular emphasis on statistics and programming. Topics include data display, data description and summary, statistical inference and significance tests, analysis of variance, correlation, regression, and some advanced concepts, such as matrix methods, principal component analysis, and spatial statistics. Students will develop expertise in data analysis using advanced statistical software.

Students must pay a $40.00 lab materials fee.

WB11	Xiangjie Chen	Seats (Total: 25)

GEOG646 Programming for GIS

Additional information: This class is recommended for all MSGIS students who have no prior computer programming background as well as those who wish to have additional practice. The skills learned in this class will be useful for more advanced courses such as GEOG656 (Programming and Scripting for GIS), GEOG657 (Web Programming), and GEOG650 (Mobile GIS).

An introduction to computer programming using Python and web programming languages. It is required for students in the MSGIS program before they enroll in more advanced programming courses (GEOG656 and GEOG657). This course teaches students the fundamentals concepts of computer science. Students will learn about the components of a computer program such as data management, conditional statements, iterative statements, and file processing. Students will develop programs and web apps for the purpose of automating tasks and assisting with data analysis.

Students must pay a $40 lab fee.

GEOG660 Advanced Remote Sensing Using Lidar

Prerequisite: GEOG652. Recommended: GEOG656 and GEOG654. Credit only granted for: GEOG660 or GEOG788G. Formerly: GEOG788G.

Lidar, also known as laser scanning, is an active remote sensing tool that can produce high-resolution point clouds. Lidar is being applied to problems such as terrain modeling, biomass estimation, change detection, feature extraction, and measuring tree canopy. Topics covered are fundamentals of lidar, current developments in lidar technology, and different applications where lidar is being used. Students will get hands-on learning about lidar data management, processing, and analysis.

Students must pay a $40 lab fee.

GEOG664 GEOINT Systems and Platforms

There are numerous systems and platforms that support the collection, visualization and dissemination of Geospatial Intelligence (GEOINT). Platforms such as satellites and aircraft carry sensors systems that can detect both physical and man-made objects on the earth. Ground-based processing systems are used to analyze and visualize sensor data, and also to create and disseminate GEOINT products that guide decision-making. In this course you will learn how to develop and implement source-to-screen GEOINT workflows, and will understand how to use a system of systems approach to describe the programmatic and technical strengths and weaknesses of many different GEOINT systems and platforms.

Students must pay a $40 lab fee.

GEOG665 Algorithms for Geospatial Intelligence Analysis

Recommended: Students taking the course must be familiar with data structures, basic GIS and RS concepts, and demonstrate basic understanding of using GIS and RS software. Restriction: Permission of BSOS-Geography department; or must be enrolled in Geographical Sciences MPS or graduate certificate program.

Exposes students to fundamental algorithms in geospatial intelligence and their application in methodological and substantive domains, and their implementation in computer programs and software systems. Current topics include spatial and space-time analysis, cartographic transformations, data compression and reduction, MapReduce and distributed data access, genetic algorithms, clustering and indexing algorithms, filtering algorithms, geometry and tessellation algorithms, routing algorithms, localization algorithms, and complexity and scaling. Implementation of algorithms will be explored through pseudo-code and a variety of scripting, data access, and programming languages.

Students must pay a $40 lab fee.

GVPT379C Topics in American Politics; American Politics and Popular Culture

The study of topics in American politics.

This course will serve as a survey of "pop" culture and how it relates to the American political system. While many people are not that interested in politics or watch the news everyday, they do interact on social media, see art, go to movies, and watch TV. In many cases these things are intertwined with concepts of political science. Because of this, they are an important component of political socialization and heuristics. In this course, we will focus on film and television but will also briefly cover other forms of expression including literature, fashion, and art. Structurally, we will examine pop culture's influence in six areas: legislative politics, presidential politics, judicial politics, interest groups/lobbying, the military, and social justice. Note: Much of the material we engage with will contain images, language, and themes that some people may find offensive. If you have concerns about registering for this course, please contact the instructor.

MIEH Maryland Institute for Applied Environmental Health — Winter 2024

MIEH609 Methods in Environmental Health

(Perm req)

This research-based rotation in environmental health sciences will provide graduate students with the opportunity to work closely with faculty researchers in the Maryland Institute for Applied Environmental Health (MIAEH) within the School of Public Health. Our research covers multiple fields within the environmental health sciences (e.g. environmental epidemiology, exposure science, risk assessment, environmental microbiology, environmental microbiology, environmental microbial genomics, food toxicology, airborne infection transmission, environmental justice, and children's environmental health) that involve either laboratory-based research or non-laboratory based studies. Students will not only gain invaluable research experience and interpersonal skills but also contribute to MIAEH's ongoing environmental health research programs.

RDEV Real Estate Development Winter 2024

RDEV689C Current Topics in Real Estate Development; Havana's Art & Culture: The Intersection of Architecutre, Planning, Preservation and Economics

Explores a focused aspect in any of the five major phases of real estate development: planning, finance, law, design, construction, or management.

Cross-listed with ARCH478D, ARCH678D, HISP619C, URSP399I, and URSP688R. Credit only granted for ARCH478D, ARCH678D, HISP619C, RDEV689C, URSP399I, or URSP688R. This course will explore art and culture in Havana, Cuba as the intersection of architecture, planning, preservation, and economics, including real estate development. Havana is one of the oldest cities in the hemisphere, having just celebrated its 500th anniversary. The course will provide the opportunity for the students to intensely interact (virtually, from Havana) with Cuban experts in each discipline. Students will first learn about the rich and complex contextual past and present framework for how these four disciplines interact and are manifested in the arts, culture, and society. Group projects will apply the learning to specific neighborhoods in Havana. This is a Global Classrooms course, developed in partnership with the Office of International Affairs (OIA) to provide opportunities for virtual, project-based, and international collaboration.

Contact department for information to register for this course.

SOCY230 Sociological Social Psychology

Why do people do that? Sitting at the nexus of sociology and psychology, this course surveys the various ways in which sociologists have answered this question. We investigate individuals-for example, how they develop and understand themselves in relation to others, how they choose to present themselves to the world, and how they form thoughts and opinions. And we study larger units of analyses, from small groups to the broader society. Topics covered include socialization, identity formation, social influence, group processes, how social processes shape individual behavior, and how human behavior shapes society.

SPHL401 Racism as a Public Health Crisis in the US and Brazil

This short-term course through the School of Public Health will explore how systemic and interpersonal racism limits the ability of People of Color in Brazil and the United States to attain their highest level of health and wellbeing. In multiple places around the world, racism causes disproportionate stress, trauma, inequitable access to care, and other negative impacts on health, life, and dignity for People of Color.

Contact department for information to register for this course.

SPHL631 Racial Trauma and Racial Healing

Racial trauma, also referred to as race-based traumatic stress, refers to the accumulated psychological and emotional injuries experienced as a result of intergenerational and systemic racism and racial bias. This interdisciplinary course will draw from scholarship on the psychology of race and racism, racism as a public health crisis, emotional justice, education for racial justice, as well as anti-racist education for social, cultural, and political change. The scholarship used in the course, which is grounded in lived experience, will also point us in the direction of resistance, healing, and cultivating joy especially in our current racial context. Students from across all fields are welcomed and encouraged to enroll and this course is ideal for students of all racial backgrounds who have engaged in some academic, personal, and/or professional work related to race/racial justice. This course will give space for learners to engage in how racial trauma has impacted their own and others' lives, now and across generations, and what potential paths towards collective resistance, healing, and wellbeing look like. Grounded in some of the latest work related to defining and exploring racial trauma and racial healing, including how people of all racial categories have been traumatized by the racialized violence and dehumanization of People of Color, this course will focus on understanding racial trauma and building new paths forward for us all.

This is a blended course. The course will meet in-person on Friday, January 5, 10am-3pm, Friday, January 12, 10am-3pm, and Monday, January 22, 10am-3pm. The rest of the course will be asynchronous. The first two meetings will be in SPH 0227 and the last meeting will be in SPH 0116A.
